

CENTER FOR URBAN RESEARCH AND EDUCATION (CURE) AND
OFFICE OF CIVIC ENGAGEMENT
JOINT SEMINARS ON URBAN ISSUES

INVESTING IN URBAN CHANGE

ALICIA GLEN

MANAGING DIRECTOR, HEAD OF THE URBAN INVESTMENT GROUP GOLDMAN SACHS

Friday, October 26, 12:20pm
Armitage Faculty Lounge, 3rd Floor
Lunch will be provided

Alicia Glen is responsible for implementing Goldman Sachs' Community Reinvestment Act business strategy. Under her leadership, the Urban Investment Group at Goldman Sachs has become the industry leader in structuring complex public-private partnerships, catalyzing more than $4 billion of development across dozens of residential, mixed-use, and commercial projects, as well as financing job creation and neighborhood revitalization strategies like the $40 million New York Healthy Food and Healthy Communities Fund. Alicia Glen serves on several public and non-profit boards focused on community redevelopment. She was a 2010 David Rockefeller fellow and is an adjunct professor at Columbia Business School.